

Workplace Tension: When Employees Just Don't Get Along

Why can't people just get along?

Isn't there a way to put an end to workplace gossip?

Are you tired of doing training, but the problem still exists?

We Have Your Answer!

Tension Intervention

End the tug of war between two people and watch productivity sky rocket!

TURNING THIS

INTO

THIS!

We've launched a proven process to end personality based feuds and move people from being adversaries to allies. We put an end to the bickering and complaining. No more infighting and back biting. Employees won't dread coming to work because the underlying tension on the team is gone.

How it works

Tension Intervention works best when Employee Assistance Center (EAC) meets onsite at the workplace with the parties involved. A phone call to EAC is all it takes to get the process started. Based on that initial conversation, we will recommend a course of action, generally a 2 hour facilitated meeting between the parties involved.

Who is EAC?

EAC is an employee assistance program provider. Our experienced and certified staff have worked with hundreds of organizations like yours to solve their most difficult people problems.

Results from our clients

“We had a reoccurring issue with two of our employees on the same shift. The Management Team just simply could not get these employees to play nice in the sand box. I saw a change in the employees that I was not expecting. They began to get into the mindset that there was going to be a future with working side-by-side with each other. Both employees now report they were glad we did what we did and that it has turned around. This isn't implying that they are now the best of friends, but they can now co-exist with each other and not negatively impact their co-workers and their plant's production.”
